Ardent is committed to brewing innovative beers and sharing them with our community. We began as a homebrewing co-op in a Richmond garage and sought to educate ourselves on historic brewing methods and beer styles, as well as to make beers that were distinctly our own. Today, we continue in this tradition and aim to produce and celebrate exceptional beer.

 Sat & Sun 12pm-Sunset

Lickinghole Creek Craft Brewery is a water-conscious, biologically friendly farm brewery carefully crafting Belgium-style beers and growing hops, barley and other adjuncts. We brew with well water drawn from the deep. Our wastewater is purified on site and returned to the Lickinghole Creek watershed. Our name pays homage to Little Lickinghole Creek, which runs through the farm's rolling hills.

The Center of the Universe Brewing Company began in 2009 when two brothers began brewing in their houses. In turn their hobby became an obsession, which has led them to open their own craft brewery in Ashland. Located in the heart of central Virginia, it is affectionately known as "The Center of the Universe." Chris Ray is a retired major league pitcher and his brother Phil Ray left his career as a mechanical engineer.

In search of craft beer out of the ordinary? So are we. That's why we spend our days toiling away, creating exquisitely peculiar concoctions to satisfy the most curious of cravings, persnickety of palates and inquisitive of individuals. That said, we strongly encourage you to do two things: Think Strange. Drink Strange. Strangeways Brewing always showcases 25 unique beers on tap at their tasting room.

★ UNITED ★

Richmond and beer have had a long love affair. From being the first place in the world canned beer was enjoyed in the 30's, to a rich history of breweries going back before the Civil War, beer has been intertwined with our fair city since its early beginnings.

Currently Richmond's beer culture is continuing to make huge strides touting 11 breweries and an ever increasing number of beer focused businesses and beer lovers.

Richmond Breweries United is a partnership between the Richmond Regional Tourism, local beer writers, and the Richmond area breweries. Our goal is to educate, advocate, and promote Richmond's rich beer culture and grow our cities beer tourism one sip at a time.
